

Dear Colleagues,

We kindly invite you to take part in the Migration Law and Policy sessions. As Migration Studies are a multidisciplinary field, TMC 2020 is dedicating, this year again, a special session on Migration Law and Policy, expanding the scope of the Conference and providing a broader picture of human mobility around the world.

At TMC 2020, scholars, experts, young researchers, students, practitioners, and policymakers can interact and exchange their knowledge also with law professionals.

Human mobility has become one of the most intriguing topics of the globalised world and still has to be legally regulated to ascertain actual protection to people on the move. Due to the migration crisis of the 21st century, human mobility has become one of the most relevant topics of the public, academic and legal debates. Under these circumstances, international and national laws and regulations on migration have been trying to adapt to the new migration tendencies. At the TMC Migration Law and Policy session, it will be possible to bring these laws and regulations into the debate, putting the legal perspective especially in the political and sociological context, so that they can complement one another.

TMC Migration Law and Policy session will include speakers and participants from all over the world, with no regional limitation. We encourage legal academics, policymakers, judges, lawyers, and jurists to submit abstracts (up to 500 words) of their research or papers until 5th January 2020.

Topics may include, but are not limited to: migration law and policy, legislative developments on migration, comparative studies on migration law and policy, regional approaches to the protection of migrants, visa law and policies, border security, human smuggling and trafficking, international governance of migration, legal protection of forced migrants, refugees, IDPs, environmentally displaced persons, survival migrants, protection of stateless persons in the context of migration, complementary protection for migrants, human rights of migrants, access to asylum, international refugee protection, refugee law and policy, the rights of refugees, integration law and policies, irregular migration and interior enforcement.
